

Workshop of the British Association for Applied Linguistics (BAAL)
Health & Science Communication Special Interest Group (HSC SIG)
“Mixing it up: Multi-methods, media and modalities”
#healthsci18

Wednesday 21st November 2018
Hosted by the School of Education, Communication & Society, King’s College London

The venue and travel information

The workshop will be held at the Waterloo Campus of King’s College London, which is located in the heart of London, next to the Southbank of the river Thames. The workshop, including lunch and the evening event, will take place in the Franklin-Wilkins Building. The street name and postcode for the Franklin-Wilkins Building is 150 Stamford Street, SE1 9NH.

The nearest train station is Waterloo. However, Blackfriars and Waterloo East stations are also less than 10 minutes’ walk away. And for those that like a walk, Charing Cross and London Bridge stations are approximately 20 minutes’ walk away.

A map of Waterloo and the surrounding area can be found at the following link. The page also includes further information about transport to and from the Waterloo campus, including underground stations:
